Message from our Chair

There's been much work going on at Charity Link as we moved towards our 150th year - an extraordinary milestone that speaks to the enduring importance of what we do. In order to meet current need in 2026 - as we have been doing since 1876 - we've enhanced our digital systems to improve the delivery, reach and security of our services. Elsewhere, we make strides in growing our social enterprise The Goods Depot and our Trust Administration Service.

Excellent work from our officers in leading change has been mirrored within the Board itself. When I was appointed Chair in the summer of 2024, I spoke of our ambition to create flexible, inclusive routes into trusteeship. We've since introduced our Associate Trustee role, with the specific goal of encouraging talented, busy people to apply their skills for the benefit of our charitable aims. To that end, we are all thrilled to welcome Dharmist Bathia and Liam Robertson-Ball into the new role, alongside Emma Anderson and Steve Barradell, who join us as full Trustees. Each brings hugely valuable skills and fresh insight at this exciting point in our journey and we thank them for their commitment to us in this landmark year.

George Oliver

Message from our CEO

It has been a year of change, as we said 'happy retirement' to a number of long-standing members of the team. Jim, our Deputy CEO, retired after 38 years with the organisation, and we also said goodbye to Frank Hooton, Caseworker, Alex Grealis, The Goods Depot Trading Manager, Sue Stevenson, Trust Administrator, and Tony Jarvis, our Honorary Treasurer. I would like to thank them all for their dedication and wish them all the very best in this new chapter in their lives.

Over recent months – whilst planning for our sesquicentennial year – we've been reflecting on Charity Link's truly remarkable 150-year history. We've also been looking to the future, with new systems, trustees, team members, and opportunities ahead.

This period of transition and transformation is hugely important, and we have so much that we want to achieve. It is, however, also important to recognise that, like many charities, continuing our vital work in the current climate is not easy. With rising costs, a drop in fundraising income and wider challenges, we still very much need your help, support and partnership.

Thank you for being part of this wonderful charity's history and for years to come.

Sue McEniff

Lucas's story

Lucas is retired and has stage 3 kidney disease. He agreed with his daughter and son-in-law that he would sell the house he had owned for many years and move in with them; this would reduce his costs, and they could help care for him.

After the sale of Lucas's home and many of his items, he trusted the proceeds to his daughter and moved into their house. A short time later, Lucas needed to undergo further medical treatment and he was admitted to hospital and ended up staying for a number of weeks.

When he was discharged, Lucas returned to his daughter's home, expecting a warm welcome. However, he found that the locks had been changed, and he was refused entry. This was shocking and devastating for Lucas. Along with facing such a betrayal, everything he owned, including smaller household items, clothes, and personal items, was trapped in the house. He urgently sought help and advice from support agencies, but there were no quick or easy answers, and Lucas has been unable to get his items or money back.

He was helped to be rehoused and, whilst it was not how he saw his later life, Lucas was grateful to have somewhere to call home. However, now relying on his state pension, and with few belongings, he didn't have the money to buy the essential items he needed for his physical and mental wellbeing.

Lucas was referred to Charity Link for help. Our expert team applied for and untapped the funds required to provide him with a much-needed cooker, fridge freezer and washing machine. Once funding was secured, our social enterprise, The Goods Depot, sourced, delivered and installed the items. They have improved his standard of living and dignity, and are enabling him to prepare hot and healthy meals and store his medication correctly.

Whilst life is not easy – Lucas continues to face medical challenges and his experience has taken a severe emotional toll – he can now look to the future with his basic needs met, and that makes a massive difference.

Thank you.

Expanding our impact

We began a pilot project in Nottingham as part of our grant programme, funded for the sixth year by Octopus Energy, as part of the Warm Homes Initiative. With limited funding in the area, we focused on developing relationships with a small number of referring agencies that made applications on behalf of their clients. With positive feedback, we are considering future development.

Social return on investment

The support we provide – through the provision of essential items - not only changes the lives of the individuals and families we help directly, but it also has far-reaching benefits across the community. When considering the cost of our services and the impact we make, our return on investment is significant.

- reduces truancy, absence from school and work, and presentation at health settings
- increases contributions to the community
- ensures choice & dignity
- enables our referring partners to focus on their areas of expertise
- supports financial resilience to prevent further financial shocks

Lylia's story

Lylia was referred to Charity Link by a support worker at Citizens Advice. Throughout their relationship, Lylia's husband has suffered from several long-term mental health conditions, and over the years, his mental health declined significantly. He began to be physically and emotionally abusive towards Lylia, and after a long period of trauma and abuse, during which time Lylia was too afraid to ask for help, neighbours called the police after witnessing a serious attack. Lylia's husband was arrested, but when out on bail he fled and he has been on the run for some time.

For her protection, Lylia needed to move home, but this meant leaving a furnished rental property and moving to an unfurnished tenancy. Her husband had always been controlling over her actions and finances, and this, along with the impact of arthritis, meant Lylia hadn't worked for some time. As a result, she was moving with few possessions, no savings, and she was relying on limited benefits to pay for basic day-to-day living costs. There was no way that Lylia could afford the items she needed to provide a decent standard of living and set up a new home.

We have been able to provide two of the items Lylia needed most urgently - a fridge freezer and an orthopaedic mattress. These items are making a massive difference in improving Lylia's health and wellbeing.

It is only with your support that we can make such a difference to people like Lylia.

Coming together to campaign for change

For many survivors of trauma, claiming benefits is not a neutral process. The language, tone and structures of welfare systems can echo earlier experiences of fear, control or shame. But they can also, when handled with care, become moments of healing and empowerment.

Charity Link came together with Quetzal and Shama Women's Centre, organisations also working in Leicester, to form a partnership to understand what helps and what harms when survivors of trauma interact with the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP).

With funding from Lloyds Bank Foundation as part of its Local Collaborations Programme, the partnership was able to undertake online surveys, focus groups and one-to-one interviews, conducted in Leicester, where survivors described what good practice feels like and what they would like to see change.

In February, the partnership invited representatives from a wide range of support organisations and Leicester City Council to a launch event for the report prepared from the project findings. Along with hearing details of the project, attendees heard from Shockat Adam, Independent MP for Leicester South, and from those with lived experience.

We are proud to be part of this important partnership, which is calling for practical changes to the welfare system, to better support people who have experienced trauma. Those attending the launch discussed further ideas to move towards a trauma-informed welfare system and were encouraged to support the trauma-informed welfare pledge.

More information on the project can be found at www.traumainformedwelfare.org

Kicking off a very special year!

Changing lives in need for 150 years

2026 is a milestone year for Charity Link – as we mark our 150th anniversary of helping local people in need.

On 29th May 1876, the first public meeting of the charity was held at the County Rooms (now The City Rooms) in Leicester city centre. The principles of the charity were approved, a committee was appointed, and we were officially formed. It is remarkable to think that during the same year, Leicester Town Hall Square opened, Tchaikovsky completed Swan Lake, and the telephone was invented by Alexander Graham Bell!

We have achieved so much over the years, constantly adapting to changing need. This has included focusing on supporting service personnel and their families during and after both the First and Second World Wars through to adapting our work to ensure we could continue our services throughout the COVID-19 pandemic (and launching the 'There With You' Fund, in partnership with Leicestershire Live and The Randal Charitable Foundation, which enabled us to distribute £850k items between March 2020 and March 2021).

We continue to innovate, pivot and develop our work to make as big an impact as possible, as we hope this Impact Review shows.

Whilst the business people and caring individuals who launched the charity all those years ago would likely be shocked that the need for our work remains so great, we hope they would be proud of all we have accomplished and our continued passion for changing more lives in need.

We can only do so with your support, and for that, we are truly grateful.

We'd love your birthday message!

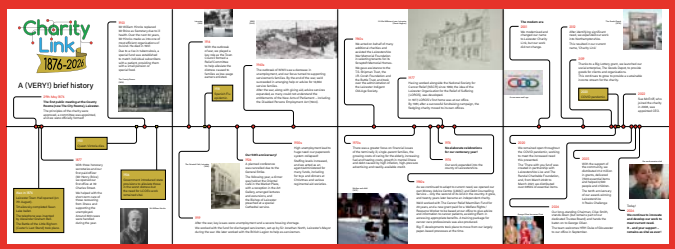
As part of our birthday activities, we are collating birthday messages, and we'd love to receive yours! Messages will be shared across our platforms and displayed at our events to highlight the support of the community.

Club 150

We are asking businesses, individuals, organisations and clubs to raise £150 to support our vital work during 2026.

Four generations of support

We spoke with honorary trustee Caroline Wessel (née Gee), whose family has supported the charity for four generations. It began with her great-grandfather H. Simpson Gee, a leading Leicester figure in the late 19th century, followed by Percy Gee, and then Harry Gee (Caroline's father). Caroline has continued this legacy, serving as a dedicated trustee for 28 years. Read more about the Gee family's support on our website.



Our timeline

To mark this special milestone, we've created a timeline of our history. You can download this on our website.

Do you have a connection to Charity Link?

(Officially known as Leicester Charity Organisation Society). If so, we'd love to hear from you. Email: hello@charity-link.org

Goals for the year head

The year to 31st March 2027 will be a very special one, with 150th birthday activities taking place throughout 2026, and foundation work undertaken to take us into the years ahead.

This milestone year is a very exciting one for us, and we hope our sesquicentennial (a milestone few organisations reach) will encourage further interest in and support of our work and open up new opportunities. These are just some of our planned goals and activities:

- Utilise our 150th birthday to raise awareness of our work and vital funds.
- Be successful in gaining Heritage Lottery funding to facilitate the research, digitisation and sharing of our historic archive.
- Welcome guests to our key birthday events, including our Ball in June and our supporter thank you event in November.
- Achieve Cyber Essentials accreditation and embrace technology to enhance our mission.
- AI Working Group meeting regularly to further develop knowledge and utilise benefits of this ever-expanding and crucial field.
- Increase external sales at The Goods Depot to further support Charity Link's core work, with a new website being launched
- Increase the number of Charity Link 'Friends' and Proud Business Supporter Club members.
- Continue our outreach programme to speak to existing and potential referral partners and reduce any barriers to access.
- Further partnerships and collaborations with organisations to generate greater impact
- Help to improve the health, wellbeing and dignity of 5,000+ local people in need.

Whilst we remain passionate and determined in our mission, we are currently operating in an extremely challenging climate. Raising the funds required to continue our vital services, in light of a drop in donations and rising overheads, is extremely tough.

The recent 'Charities Aid Foundation (CAF) UK Giving Report 2026' emphasised some of the challenges and trends; a reduction in donations from the British public from £15.4 billion in 2024 to £14 billion in 2025, and, over the past ten years, a fall in participation in charitable giving from 69% of adults to 55% today.

To address a reluctant giving environment and limited trust grant application opportunities, we continue to focus on growing our social enterprises for sustainability and maintaining and developing a wide range of income streams to help us 'weather the storm'. Ensuring we remain well placed to undertake our core work – improving the lives of those in hardship and crisis – is at the heart of all we do.

Working in partnership

Our casework team works in partnership with 250 local charities and organisations to ensure we get help across the community to people who need it, when they need it.

The team regularly visits our referral partners to discuss the challenges faced by their clients (and their organisations) and to see how we can best support them. This year, the team has also been focused on raising awareness of the support we may be able to offer those with mobility and disability related items that are not available via the NHS or statutory sources.

Partnership working is at the heart of Charity Link's impact, and we would like to thank all of our referring partners for their help and dedication.

It is only working in this way that we can make such a massive difference across the community.

Just some of the events/organisations/groups visited this year:

'A Picture of Poverty in Leicester – what can we do about it' event at DMU, hosted by Citizens Advice • Housing Associations Leicester • Leicester Homeless Charter • OT Lightbulb Adults and Children's Service • Leicester Supporting Victims of Domestic Violence Roundtable • The Zinthiya Trust • The Pinacle Group • Local Probation Service • Park Lodge Project

Marina Saridaki from Women's Aid Leicestershire says of this work:

" Charity Link has been vital for strengthening the support we give to our clients during their transition from our support in refuges, into their own independent new home and community. The furniture and the white goods that Charity Link has donated to help the clients furnish their homes has been crucial.

Without the support, many of our families would have to sleep on the floor or share a bed, they would not be able to cook or store food because their financial struggles would have made it difficult to buy a fridge or a cooker – or simply to keep their clothes clean due not being able to afford a washing machine.

Without Charity Link's support the vulnerable families from our services, who have limited or no external family networks and have faced poverty due to domestic abuse and violence, would be vulnerable to loan sharks and other high-cost credit cards, which is detrimental to their financial and economic wellbeing. Women's Aid greatly values and appreciates the ongoing partnership and support from Charity Link. "

The team is always keen to make new connections and speak to teams about the support we can offer to their clients. Email info@charity-link.org

Trust Administration Service

Ever since Charity Link was founded 150 years ago, we've worked in partnership with charitable organisations to coordinate relief for people in need. Today, our expert Trust Administration Service supports charities, not-for-profit organisations, charitable and philanthropic projects and schemes, offering a range of clerkship, grant administration, charity management, governance reviews, training and consultancy services.

Jackie Earl, Trust Administration Officer, was promoted to Team Leader to develop and drive forward the service, which has welcomed several new clients this year and continues to receive regular enquiries for assistance.

Results from a recent client survey show that our Trust Administration Service is viewed as a cost effective option for charities. Clients reported a strong likelihood to recommend the service, with an average rating of 4.4 out of 5. They particularly valued the service's efficiency, professionalism, quality, and its ability to relieve trustees of administrative burdens.

After internal testing, the team helped several clients to utilise a digital platform to further assist in streamlining meeting management and administrative workload for clients, and for cybersecurity benefits. The team is focused on continuing to provide excellent service for current clients and growth in the year ahead, with profits from the service supporting Charity Link's core work.

The Goods Depot

The Goods Depot is our social enterprise, launched in 2019 thanks to a Big Lottery Grant. It fulfils the majority of product requirements for Charity Link clients, whilst also selling white goods, beds, furniture and household essentials to other charities, housing associations, and support organisations that procure items for their service users. Every external purchase supports our core work.

The Goods Depot provides high-quality, affordable white goods, furniture, beds, and household essentials to organisations that support people in need.

As part of plans to increase external sales through The Goods Depot - to help create a suitable income stream for Charity Link - a rebrand process has begun, with a new logo and social media pages recently launched. A new website, to include an organisation account facility, will be launched in the coming year. Also, keep a look out for our new van out and about across Leicestershire, Rutland, Northamptonshire, Nottinghamshire and Warwickshire in the coming months!

During the year, The Goods Depot team, supported by Charity Link staff and Trustees, has undertaken work to modernise and strengthen the operation. By re-evaluating, streamlining and embracing digital solutions, we have been able to reduce costs, improve efficiency, and maximise funds generated to support Charity Link – and the team is committed to responsible stewardship and long-term sustainability of The Goods Depot.

The team also continues to build strong, trusted relationships with our existing customers and has secured encouraging engagement with housing associations and organisations, opening new opportunities to extend our reach and impact. The team would love to hear from further housing associations, charities and support services, refugee and homeless support, local authorities, and community organisations who are looking for a reliable goods provider with ethical pricing and quality products.

A few of our amazing Leicestershire 3 Peaks Challengers!

We've changed thousands of lives in need thanks to the support of many individuals, charities, companies, trusts, local authorities and organsiations. We couldn't do it without you!
